- Exceeding the upper limit of a flat-rate data service will result in data speeds to be limited to a maximum of 128 kbps until the end of the billing month. Normal data speeds can be restored by purchasing additional data usage.
- Your available data usage may vary depending on your contract plan (4G, 5G, etc.). Please visit our web site for details.

The limited speed can be reset to regular speed by applying for additional data.
Also, If the total data volume for one billing month exceeds 200 GB when using data with smartphones and other devices and the tethering option under the Data Plan PayToku-Unlimited, the data speed (Including tethering option) will be limited to a maximum of 4.5 Mbps until the end of the billing month. Additional data is not available for the speed limit in this case.

Restrictions on data communication speeds

- Customers who transfer a large amount of data within a certain time period may have their data speed limited. In addition, traffic information is gathered, analyzed, and accumulated for each data transfer in order to improve network quality, and there may be restrictions on communications that are specified by SoftBank separately. (For details, please see here.)
- In order to provide stable network services, SoftBank will control the data transfer speed depending on the time of day for customers who subscribe to certain plans, as specified on the SoftBank website. Services that may be controlled included videos, games, AR (Augmented Reality), and other services that may cause traffic congestion. Data communication speeds may be restricted but are never disconnected.
- For customers who subscribe to certain plans, if a large data transfer is continuously performed in a certain period, and if SoftBank judges that the data transfer is being performed by a machine, data transfer speeds may be restricted for the customer.
- Data usage used for billing will not be counted for customers who have subscribed to certain plans only when they use the services specified by SoftBank.

*If you have signed a contract at a store or made one online, initial contract cancellation does not apply.

- Customers who have made a contract via house call or solicitation over the phone may cancel their contract by applying within 8 days after the receipt of the contract issued in writing or after the beginning of service, whichever is later (initial contract cancellation).

Cooling-Off System for the Purchase and Sales Contract

*The cooling-off system is not applied to the purchases inside stores.

- If you apply for the purchase of a mobile phone (including accessories) with door-to-door sales or telephone marketing, you can cancel your application or contract unconditionally by presenting a written notice or an electromagnetic record separately designated in writing by your seller in the cooling period of eight days starting from the day you receive this document (cooling-off).
- If you did not exercise cooling-off because of misunderstanding caused by untrue comments about the cooling-off system, or because of confusion under duress, you can exercise cooling-off until eight days have passed starting from the day you receive the document which states your ability to set another cooling-off period.
- Cooling-off becomes effective at the time of dispatch of the document or through an electromagnetic record (postmarked date in the case of dispatched document).
- You do not have any obligation to pay any damage compensation, cancellation fees or cost for sending back the goods to the seller. If you have already made payment for the goods, you can get the full refund. Even if you have already used the goods, you do not need to pay any money equivalent to the profit obtained by using the goods, such as received payment for the goods.
- Telecommunication related charges (administrative processing fee, basic fee, airtime fee, etc.) are outside the scope of cooling-off.

*For cooling-off by document, please write down the date of application (or date of contract), name of goods (including your mobile phone number), the name of your seller, your intention of canceling the contract (or withdrawing the application) on a sheet of paper such as a postcard, and send it to your seller by mail. We recommend sending it as simplified registered mail for security.

- ▶ In case you wish to cancel both the purchase and sales contract and the installment payment contract, please send a statement written with your intention to cancel your installment payment contract by exercising cooling-off, to SoftBank by mail.
