End to Applications for Global Call Plan

Vodafone K.K. announces today that as of 31 March 2005 it will stop accepting applications for the Global Call Plan, a price plan intended for mobile communications activities whilst overseas.

Launched in December 2002 together with Vodafone K.K.'s 3G service, the Global Call Plan was offered with the Motorola V66 GSM handset to provide a convenient price plan to customers wishing to roam on GSM networks overseas. However, with the subsequent expansion of 3G service areas and rollout of attractive Vodafone live! 3G handsets and services that can be used both in Japan and abroad, the Global Call Plan will have fewer new customers and therefore will be phased out as a result.

*Customers already signed up to the Global Call Plan can continue to use the same plan from April 2005 onwards.
