The Communication Service Provision Contract you enter into is a separate contract from this one. After this contract's conclusion, you will still have to pay your installments even if you cancel the Communication Service Provision Contract.

● The billing of the installment payments starts in the second month counting from the conclusion of the contract, in principle. In case the contract was signed at the same time as the Communication Service Contract, the bill may start in the third month counting from the conclusion of the contract, depending on how our communication services are used.

* In case of credit card payment, the payment will be scheduled as stipulated in the credit card contract.
