Service validity period and phone number validity period

- Service validity period: Calls can be made and received and text messages can be received and sent.
- Phone number validity period: Calls can be made and received and SMS can be received.

- Call charges are ¥9.43 per 6 seconds to anywhere in Japan.
- The registered balance is available only during service validity period. After the expiration date, the balance is invalid. Please note that no refunds will be given.
- After the expiration date, the Flat-rate Data Plan for Simple Style will be automatically terminated.
- Failure to register a new prepaid card within the phone number validity period automatically terminates the service, invalidating the phone number.
- If the service and phone number validity period are still in effect, you can extend the service period by additionally registering new cards regardless of the credit balance.
- You can use flat-rate data communication and send/receive SIMail and SMS by applying for a flat-rate data plan appropriate for your handset (see pages 6-7). However, you cannot send SMS to the phones of other service providers (you can receive SMS from other service providers).
- To apply for a flat-rate data plan, your balance must be at least enough to cover the amount of the rate you are applying for, plus consumption tax.
- You can still receive SMS even without applying for a flat-rate data plan.
- No consumption tax is imposed on prepaid cards.

*1: No consumption tax is imposed on free charge and prepaid cards.

Displayed prices are inclusive of consumption tax if not otherwise specified.
Amounts shown may differ from billing amounts due to calculations of consumption tax.

Important notes

• The following points are important notes for using Simple Style.

● You cannot change the phone number

● Transfer or takeover requires permission

• You must obtain permission from SoftBank Corp., when transferring or receiving a Simple Style user's right to or from a third party.

• Approval is granted at no charge. Upon approval, the handset shall be transferred between the interested parties. Please note that SoftBank Corp. is not responsible for any damage that may arise.

● Only the phone number can be retained in the Mobile Number Portability (MNP) service

• MNP service does not allow you to retain any information except your mobile phone number.

● Separate handling fees will be charged when signing a new contract or changing your handset

• A contract handling fee will apply to new contracts. A separate model change fee will apply when changing handset models.
For details, please see the "Important Points to Note when Subscribing to a Simple Style (Prepaid Services) Contract" provided to you at the time you apply for a contract.

• The above handling fees will be deducted from your credit balance.

• Please note that if your contract does not include the purchase of a handset (i.e. contracts for a USIM card only), the contract handling fee and model change fee must be paid at a SoftBank Shop.

● Upgrading customers

● You cannot retain your phone number when changing the contract

- SoftBank Simple Style subscribers cannot retain their phone number when changing their plan to the SoftBank Mobile Phone service (postpaid service).

● Repair and warranty

- In the case of a handset failure, bring it to a SoftBank shop for repair.
- The warranty period for mobile handsets is 12 months from the date of purchase.
- Damaged or malfunctioning handsets, including initial defects, shall be brought to us for repair. A temporary substitute handset shall be provided upon submission of your identification documents (usually those submitted when signing a new SoftBank contract).
- Data stored on the handset will be deleted upon repair.

● Usage restrictions

- When necessary, SoftBank may ask Simple Style subscribers to submit additional identification documents. In case of the failure to do so or discovery of false information, SoftBank may suspend your right to use the service.

● Universal service system and telecommunications relay service system

- If you use a Simple Style handset, you must pay the universal service fee and telecommunications relay service fee each time you add credit. For the amount, check it on SoftBank's website or ask a shop crew.

For 4G smartphone and 4G Mobile Handset subscribers

● Voice and flat-rate data communication services are available

- Some of the services (including optional services) and preinstalled applications may not be available to Simple Style subscribers.
- In order to use a preinstalled application that requires data communication services, you need to apply for the Flat-Rate Data Plan for Simple Style or connect to a Wi-Fi network. For more details, please refer to the official SoftBank website.
- Please note that SoftBank will not be responsible for the applications that you purchase.

● PIN code

- PIN code when signing up: The PIN code is determined when signing up and will be required when you acquire the My SoftBank password, for e-mail related settings and e-mail address settings, spam mail filtering, and settings for the SoftBank Wi-Fi Spot App, as well as emergency suspension of services upon request. If you forget the PIN code, you can only find it in the letter sent to your registered address.

● Software updating

- In order to update software, you must be a subscriber to the Flat-Rate Data Plan for Simple Style or connect to a Wi-Fi Network.

● Security software

- Handsets are susceptible to infection by viruses and other threats via internet connections, e-mail attachments, etc. We recommend that you use security software to mitigate the risk.
